

EPRA International Journal of Economic Growth and Environmental Issues (EGEI)

SJIF Impact Factor: 5.708|Volume:5|June-May 2017-18

---

IMPACT OF SPECIAL ECONOMIC ZONES (SEZs) IN RURAL LIVELIHOOD-A CASE STUDY OF POLEPALLY SEZ IN TELANGANA

Dr. Sadu Rajesh<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Faculty, Department of Economics, Kakatiya University, Warangal, Telangana State, India

ABSTRACT

The present study is to examine the Impact of Special Economic Zones (SEZs) in rural livelihood of the farming people in India in the case of Polepally SEZ in Telangana State. The setting up of Special Economic Zones (SEZ) policy probably has become the most controversial economic reforms announced in recent time in India as well as in Telangana State. The people of agriculture families from the rural areas are suffered from the displacement a lot by the establishment of Special Economic Zones. The present inquiry relies exclusively on primary data which is collected through interviews, observation and discussions with the Polepally SEZ in Telangana State. This paper also deals with the nature and extent of state development policy impact on human life in Telangana State. Finally this paper examines to the establishments of SEZs are created an Socio-economic impact in rural areas and displacement of rural livelihood in India as well as in Polepally SEZ in Telangana State.

KEYWORDS: SEZ, Displacement, Development, agriculture, economic reforms