ABSTRACT

Dr. BR Ambedkar had said, “I understand the development of any society from the condition of women of the whole world. “Not only in the whole universe, there is no man in the whole universe, it is based on two sexes the nature has created women and men together and given them the qualities of a special kind, due to these qualities every female man is in his special role. If the balance of the male is deteriorated then it can be seen everywhere. Now, the rhetoric that is not right now is not only out of our jurisdiction, but it is also nonviolent inhuman, immoral, it is a straightforward indication of India’s marginalized sex ratio. This problem is so serious that every day government figures come in front of us and on this side it is by God that we still have time to go.

Inequality in gender ratio is an indication of the end of human existence. Therefore, to overcome this serious problem, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced the implementation of BBBP scheme in Haryana’s Panipat district on January 22, 2015. According to the Prime Minister Sri Narendra Modi, our opinion should be ‘Beta Beti Ek Saman’ daughter’, a program being organized by the MWCD with the participation of the MoHFW and MoHRD.

Inequality in gender ratio is an indication of the end of human existence. Therefore, to overcome this serious problem, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced the implementation of BBBP scheme in Haryana’s Panipat district on January 22, 2015. REASONS TO DECREASING SEX RATIO

- Discrimination against daughters and women,
- Desire for small families and sons.
- Dowry, son’s practice of running a race,
- Funeral, property and heritage windows
- Women’s reproductive decisions
- Increasing violence against women,
- Misuse of Ultrasonography technology and its increasing trend

The result of increase in violence and crime against women, abduction of rape and the purchase of women and girls, increased polygamy and the increase in the purchasing of the bride, the increase of women, the increase in health, the conservative thinking, the objectification of women, According to a report, if the girl’s womb, So much better care is done.

Lakhdwala of America’s Missionary State University and Prashant Bharadwaj of University of California have found that discrimination on the basis of gender starts from home. Prof. Lakdwala had said that even though it is a legal crime to identify gender before birth in India and abortion on this basis, there is still a common law in India. Women who do not have an abortion after the identification of child sex through Alta Sound, also suffer from various forms of discrimination.

After conducting a study of data of National Health Survey on more than 30 thousand Indians, these researchers said that women who have a baby in their womb, they are already given excellent medical facilities such as taking an appointment from the doctor and giving iron pills while it's In the opposite case, the woman has to give birth to the baby in the house and she is suffering from tetanus injections. Neither does it seem to be. This study has been published in the Human Resources Journal

According to the report, in the Global Gender Report 2017, India is at 108th place in the list of 144 countries. In view of the current situation, it will take India approximately 217 years to end the intervals of economic and political empowerment through men and women. India slipped 21 places to 108th place compared to Bangladesh (47) and China (100). India's biggest challenge is the availability of economic participation and opportunities. In which India is at 139th place. In the case of health and survival, it is at 141st place.

The main reason behind the decline in India's ranking is the slow down on the political participation and empowerment standards. Despite all this, whatever progress has been made under the BBBP scheme. There is a lot more to do in it. In which to change the patriarchal thinking of social frustrated mentality.
